CEDARVILLE UNIVERSITY DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Distinguished Speaker Series

The Distinguished Speaker Series brings prominent senior executives to campus to equip Cedarville business students to serve as successful professionals in the 21st century marketplace.

Through guest lectures and discussion, students gain valuable perspectives, identify new trends, and consider the latest ideas shaping domestic and international business. Interaction with executives who face these issues daily enriches the educational experience and complements the in-class curriculum.

The Distinguished Speaker Series also benefits Cedarville faculty by helping focus educational objectives and shape the curriculum to address the issues and challenges students will encounter as they enter the business world.

Students gain valuable perspectives, identify new trends, and consider the latest ideas shaping domestic and international business.

RANDY WILCOX '81

Randy Wilcox was named president of Otis North and South America in March 2007. Sales for North and South America are approximately $2.5 billion.

Previously, Randy was president of Otis South Asia Pacific, a position he held since 2002. He also serves on the Otis Executive Committee.

Randy joined Otis in 1981 as a regional trainee in San Francisco and served in various sales, branch management, and sales management assignments until he was named the Pacific Northwest region general manager in 1993.

In 1997, Randy joined the North American headquarters as vice president for marketing and sales and was responsible for directing all marketing and sales activities.

Randy received his master's degree in business administration from the University of Denver and his bachelor's degree from Cedarville.
