John Barger— Admissions Counselor

john.barger@wheaton.edu

Drawing on the values of our Christian liberal arts heritage, Wheaton College Graduate School offers doctoral and master's degree programs in the areas of psychology, education, ministry, and leadership. Each program is designed to provide excellent training in theory and praxis from a distinctly Christian perspective.

Wheaton College Graduate School is a part of Wheaton College, a Christian, interdenominational, four-year, liberal arts school founded in 1860. The Graduate School was founded in 1937 to provide further theological training and ministry skills needed to advance the cause of Christ and His kingdom. Both the College and Graduate School are on the same eighty-acre campus in Wheaton, IL, a forty-five-minute train ride straight west of downtown Chicago.
